

Report of the Taiwan Industrial Exhibition in Chennai, India.

This time, the Taiwan Industrial Exhibition held by the Trade Association in Chennai, India, convened a total of more than 180 manufacturers, almost crowding the entire exhibition hall, which is not too large. Chennai is an industrial city close to the sea and has a common track with coastal cities in other countries. "Economic development is earlier." Therefore, with Mumbai. New Delhi constitutes the golden triangle of the Indian economy, and TOYOTA and HONDA have chosen to set up assembly factory here. The factory has also led to the entry of some component suppliers. Of course, these manufacturers are also the key targets of our trip. Although the actual exhibition period is only three days, the crowds of visitors are still acceptable. Although it is not like other exhibitions, more than half of them are only to see the exhibition, but there are many potential customers. After all, we have certain things to attract people. Some of the customers who contacted before the trip also came to the booth as expected. What kind of sparks will be sparked in the follow-up will have to rely on hard work and luck...

Thoughts on this trip~

1. Although India claims to have a population of nearly one billion, a large part of the population can only make both ends meet due to poor education. Transportation and other infrastructure construction are relatively getting behind, and it is necessary to attract many foreign businesses to enter. It seems that there must take some time, and India is not a communist country, and it cannot be like China, by means of centralized power, fast improving construction and progress can be achieved, so foreign businessmen may have to endure some inconveniences for a long time, which also provides the reason for people who like to take risks to seize the opportunity, especially the result of long-term hard work by Koreans. Korean brands already have a certain degree of recognition in the minds of Indians. Taiwanese products are similar products with theirs and will be a respectable opponent in the future.
2. There are many types of industries in this gathering, and some industries are unheard of. Although everyone is not large in scale, each has its own competitiveness in its field. During the exhibition, you can take the initiative to learn about many different industries. You can be their friend and learn a lot of valuable experience from them at the same time. Although some members are about the same age as me, they have accumulated more than ten years of exhibition experience. About every page of their history can not only help others but respect them and realize that success is by no means easy or fluke. When you see a great person, you will want to learn from them. enhance the thought that I must drive myself to be better.

There is a little story in this trip~

On the second day of the exhibition, a couple with a special appearance came, and the wife looked at the castings displayed on the booth. After stroking for a long time, suddenly asked us whether the casting of one of the shift wheels could be sold to her and said They are all artists and admire the lines and Sophistication, our products have been greatly appreciated by artists who are completely amateur in die-casting products, and it also lifted us a little sense of vanity. In fact, we were discussing it only an hour ago; after the exhibition, these exhibits should be resolved on the spot, or spent 6,000 Taiwan dollars to transport them back to Taiwan. Seeing that they are beautiful, they really have some artist flavors, and we immediately said that they would give them all, but they had to come back to get them after the exhibition.

The next day they came here as agreed, took away all the exhibits, and at the same time gave us a small portrait of a Bodhisattva and blessed us with a prosperous career. At this point, I can finally be sure that I did not wrong about it, and even strongly suspected that a certain Bodhisattva deliver the gospel to us, asking us to have confidence~ "Go forward without scare". After I took the picture back home, I immediately took it in front of my Buddhist temple for comparison; whether it looked like Manjushri or Samantabhadra, at this time, my wife shows up from nowhere, and after only a glance, she is certain that the portrait is Green Dumu Bodhisattva is one of the various manifestations of Avalokitesvara Bodhisattva. It oversees the prosperity and prosperity of various production and public institutions in the world. After saying that, she immediately worshipped, and the air immediately filled with a solemn atmosphere. ~ (It seems that people who have practiced are different, and they have a spiritual analysis of the artistic conception, which is beyond the reach of us mortals.) ~ Amitabha!
